MEDICAL RECOMBINANT HUMAN COLLAGEN GEL DRESSING

Recombinant Human Type III Collagen establishes a protective barrier to support physical restoration without causing cutaneous irritation. Free from corticosteroids and synthetic pharmaceuticals, it is especially suitable for special populations, including pregnant women and infants with dermatitis or eczema.

By forming a protective film over damaged areas, it isolates external bacteria, prevents moisture loss, and creates a moist healing environment for the wound surface. This helps stabilize the skin's condition effectively.

Featuring macromolecular weight collagen, it delivers excellent film-forming properties.

Package: 1 box*1.1 fl.oz. /30g
Shelf life: 3 Years

D-NUTRIMEC MECHANISM OF ACTION IN REPAIRING SKIN BARRIER

Barrier

Recombinant Human Type III Collagen forms a reticular structure barrier on the surface of damaged skin to isolate, reduce the invasion of external bacteria and dust.

Fill

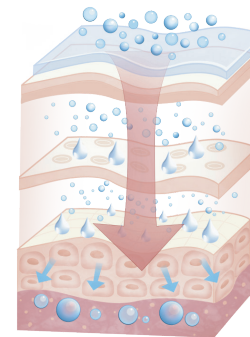

Penetrate into the damaged skin, fill the interstitial gaps, stabilize the skin state, and replenish the missing collagen.

Guide

Forms a reticular structure at the damaged skin, guides fibroblasts to migrate to the damaged part to divide and proliferate, own collagen synthesis and promotes their own collagen synthesis.

Remodeling

The components work together inside and outside to perfectly play the repair function of active collagen.

RECOMBINANT COLLAGEN ANTI-WRINKLE REPAIR MASK

As time passes, skin aging is not only manifested in the loss of moisture and the emergence of dryness and fine lines, but also in the loss of elasticity and plumpness. Collagen, the most abundant component in human skin, is an indispensable element for maintaining fullness and suppleness.

As we age, the loss of collagen accelerates, leading to increasingly loose skin, more visible fine lines, and a diminished radiance and elasticity. The recombinant collagen anti-wrinkle repair mask, soft and skin-friendly, is infused with Recombinant Human Type III Collagen, sodium hyaluronate, and trehalose, delivering plumping hydration and fullness to the skin.
